NEWRY COUPLE HAS 50th ANNIVERSARY

A grand old couple, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bennett of North Newry, celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary Monday, Nov. 24, from 10:30 to 5.

Mr. and Mrs. Bennett were married Nov. 24, 1891, by the Rev. Alphonso Bryant at the Newry parsonage. "Little old Frank" as he is often called, was born and has always lived on the home place, Mrs. Bennett, "Amy," has lived in Newry 54 years and is called "The Mother of Bear River."

There are angels in Heaven we know
And Angels of Mercy on earth below.

In times of illness, death and distress Amy always has given her strength, always willing to do her best.

The folks of Bear River extend their best wishes and feel better for knowing them. They received many cards, letters, fruitcakes and a good purse of money. Their friends and neighbors wish them all the good luck in the world.

I'd much rather live to celebrate my golden wedding anniversary with my first wife and a dozen grandchildren than be a victorious general and march through a triumphal arch. . . . Those golden wedding couples—they're the real victors.

Friends calling through the day and evening were:

Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Flint, Mrs. H. F. Thurston, Miss Carrie Wight, Mrs. Sadie Allen, Mrs. Eva Chapman, Mrs. Scarborough, Bethel, Mrs. H. H. Hanscom, Ray Hanscom, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Wight, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wight, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kilgore, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Vail, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Morton, Mr. and Mrs. John B. Vail, Mrs. Alice Tripp, Miss Dorothy Tripp, Miss Leona Tripp, Roy Tripp, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Bennett, Miss Amy Bennett, Richard Bennett, Elden Bennett, Kenneth Vail, Mrs. Emery Vail, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bean, Newry; Mr. and Mrs. Peter Turbide, Master Morris Turbide, Frank Thomas, Rumford; Mrs. William Spinney, Boston, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bennett wish to thank their friends and neighbors for their kindness in remembering them.

Local Volunteer Defense Workers Still Needed

A local Volunteer Office has been established at the store of D. Grover Brooks with Mrs. Alice J. Brooks as Chairman of the Volunteer Placement Bureau. Registration cards for both men and women are with Mrs. Brooks and every man and woman are urged to register for some part in the Defense Program.

Very few have responded to the call for volunteers and it is hoped that a large number will register soon so that Bethel may make a good showing. It should be understood that all action in this movement is purely voluntary. All who are not already engaged in some of the Civil Defense work should take time to look over the registration card and decide what they are best fitted for in an emergency.

Christmas Seals, to Help Prevent Tuberculosis. Now on Sale

During this week the 1941 Christmas Seals will go on sale throughout the State and Nation. Maine citizens are particularly interested in the Campaign because for many years the money derived from the Seals has been used for Tuberculosis prevention. Although it is now definitely known that Tuberculosis is a preventable disease, more than 200 Maine inhabitants—most of them young people—died from the disease last year. This definitely shows that more educational work is needed, and that preventive measures be stressed in all localities. The Christmas Seals finance this program, and it is essential to the health of the people that more extensive and intensive work be done in order to prevent and control the disease.

CHRISTMAS SEALS

Protect Your Home from Tuberculosis. Citizens all over the state are urged to buy as generously as possible and thus aid in assisting in the National Defense Program which places good health as the first requisite.

PULLA—FISH

Miss Marjorie L. Fish of Bethel, daughter of Mrs. Adeline Fish Dexter of Bethel and Harold V. Fish of Bath, was married Saturday, Nov. 22, at 9 o'clock to Eugene P. Pulla of Rumford.

The ceremony was performed in the Athanasius Church, Rev. Fr. Obolus officiating. Only personal friends and relatives were present.

The bride wore a gown of white satin and carried a corsage of calla lilies. Her maid of honor, Miss Rose Buccina, wore a gown of light blue taffeta and carried a corsage of pink carnations. The best man was Frank Pulla of Bath, a cousin of the groom. Following the ceremony a bridal breakfast was served at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Pulla.

Mrs. Pulla graduated from Gould Academy in 1939 and for the past year has been employed with the McWilliams of Lewiston.

Mr. Pulla is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Pulla of Rumford and a graduate of Stephens High, 1938. He is now employed at the Oxford mill. The couple will reside in Rumford.

Those attending the wedding from Bethel were Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Dexter, Mrs. Parker Conner, Mrs. Stephen Sclaraffa, Miss Francine Warren and Miss Dorothy Fish.

24 Gould Men Out for Basketball—12 Game Schedule Announced

Basketball practice started in earnest this week with Coaches Anderson and Bowhay working daily with a squad of 24 men. Many of the candidates are Freshmen and Sophomores who will be carried on the squad in an effort to develop material for the coming years.

From last year's squad only two letter men are back. Bill Robertson and Nick Amato both played consistently last year and although they are small will be valuable men this year. Two new men with some experience are Richmond and Wing, the former a big man and he should be a real help under the basket. Others who will make a strong bid for the team are Berry, a Sophomore, Townsend, Wright St. Thomas, Coolidge and Grover.

The squad hopes to begin regular practice on its new 85 by 50 floor the first part of next week. The court is equipped with the new fan shaped backboards and an excellent electric score board is also a new attraction.

At this early date prospects do not look too bright but many of the inexperienced boys handle themselves well and should develop as the season goes along.

Ma Shannon knows there will never be another Christmas for her in the little mountain farm home. She invites her four children to come home. They all send regrets after her plans for a big Christmas homecoming have been laid.

She sits in silence, two candles burning in the windows—an Irish tradition. Outside a blizzard rages. There's a desperate knock on the door and Ma goes to answer. It's—but that would spoil this story for you. And we don't want to spoil this poignant, heart-stirring tale of Christmas time. We're presenting it to you as a special Christmas feature.

WINGS OF YOUTH

Passed by censor

HERE in a Canadian factory, final touches are being given to wings which will be part of the planes in which the youth of the British Empire are learning to fly. Brestest of all flying schools in the world, the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan now has 124 schools and establishments operating and is producing pilots, observers and ground forces at a rate far exceeding the original schedule. About 600 American pilots are serving as instructors and about 8% of the pupils come from the U. S. A. The cost of the plan in the first three years of its operation will approximate $824,000,000, of which Canada will supply $531,000,000.

SUCCESSFUL HUNTERS in the Kilkenny Wildlife Management Area include Captain Gilbert N. Wiggins of Fort Monmouth, New Jersey. Captain Wiggins was one of the first Company Commanders at the old Kilkenny CCC Camp. He writes that the deer caused no little excitement as he passed through the streets of New York City.

FOREST GUARD Curtis Shewmaker of Mackville, Kentucky, took out man on Pine Mountain left for his home by bus Saturday. Shewmaker alone, of several out of state men who passed the Forest Guard Civil Service Examination last winter, journeyed so far to accept employment. The high light of his summer's sojourn in the White Mountains was a trip to Sherbrooke, Quebec. He said he never expected to set foot in Canada and when he finally did and paid for a 10 cent article with a 10 dollar bill he received 10 dollars and 0 cents in Canadian money of course.

CHRISTMAS SEASON is now fast approaching and the Ranger wishes to caution Christmas tree cutters that cutting of Christmas trees on the National Forest without permission from the Ranger is trespass. All personnel have been instructed to issue "notices to appear" to all persons seen in the act of cutting or possessing trees on the National Forest.

legitimate business and provides a source of cash income to countless farmers. To them, the encroachment of softwood upon pasture lands is underisable. Here adequate sunlight develops bushy, beautiful trees for Christmas decoration.

The National Forest is dedicated to tree growing. Cutting of trees in overstocked even-aged stands is beneficial, however these trees do not make desirable Christmas trees because their foliage is thin, due to the lack of sunlight. Such trees are often far from roads and must also be marked before cutting. Free use permits cannot be issued for Christmas trees and the minimum sale of forest products is in the amount of three dollars so it is seen that countless obstacles confront the would be cutters.

ASSISTANT RANGER Howard Bennett will be detailed to Littleton next month to fill in as Acting Ranger of the Ammonoosuc District. Ranger C. L. Kinney will be on leave for the month of December.

"MAYBE" NEXT CHRISTMAS"

By ANNE MARY LAWLER

When young Dr. Monroe told Ma Shannon she would not live to see another Christmas the old lady got busy and wrote letters to her four children, asking them to come home for Christmas. Then she prepared the little home on the mountainside for the Christmas reunion.

But one by one the children sent in their regrets, and Christmas Eve found Ma Shannon a lonely, disappointed mother, looking out from an empty house and a ragged blizzard.

There is a knock at the door. Who was it? None of her children, to be sure, but strange happenings crowded swiftly upon that knock.

"Maybe Next Christmas" is full of heart interest. Don't miss it!

GIVE HIM A CHANCE

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SOCIETY THANKSGIVING SERVICE

On Thanksgiving Day a well-attended service was held at the Christian Science Society of Bethel. The service was opened with the singing of hymn No. 374, "We Thank Thee and We Bless Thee."

The First Reader then read the Thanksgiving Proclamation issued by Governor Sewall and a Scriptural selection taken from Psalms: "Sing unto the Lord, O ye saints of his, and give thanks at the remembrance of his holiness" (Psalm 30: 4).

Following this the congregation was requested to join in a few moments of silent prayer, which was immediately followed by the audible repetition of the Lord's Prayer with its spiritual interpretation as given in the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy.

Hymn No. 376, "We Thank Thee Heavenly Father," continued the order of service.

The subject of the Lesson-Sermon was "Thanksgiving," the Golden Text being from Psalms: "Offer unto God thanksgiving; and pay thou vows unto the most High, and call upon me in the day of trouble: I will deliver thee, and thou shalt glorify me." (Psalms 50: 14, 15).

One of the Scriptural passages contained in the Lesson-Sermon was also from Psalms: "O give thanks unto the Lord, for he is good: for his mercy endureth forever. Let the redeemed of the Lord say so, whom he hath redeemed from the hand of the enemy." (Psalms 107: 1-2).

Among the correlative passages from the Christian Science textbook was the following: "Millions of unprejudiced minds—simple seekers for Truth, weary wanderers, thirst in the desert—are waiting and watching for rest and drink. Give them a cup of cold water in Christ's name, and never fear the consequences. Those ready for the blessing you impart will give thanks" (page 370: 14-18, 23-24).

The meeting was then open to the members of the congregation to give brief testimonies expressing gratitude for healing, regeneration and spiritual growth as a result of the application of Christian Science.

In closing the congregation joined in singing Hymn No. 30, "Love," by Mary Baker Eddy after which the First Reader read the Scientific Statement of Being from the Christian Science textbook, (page 403) and the correlative Scripture according to I John 3: 1-3. This was followed by the benediction from I Chronicles: "O give thanks unto the Lord; for he is good; for his mercy endureth for ever." (I Chronicles 16: 34).

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

PHOTOGRAPHIC CHRISTMAS CARDS

Best Christmas Wishes

Photographic Cards are the most personal form of greeting message. One of your valued snapshots and a simple greeting card kit will enable you to make attractive cards like this.

EVEN though Christmas is still some time away, all camera fans should be thinking about their Christmas cards. Early planning is essential. If only because there are so many ideas from which to choose. Humorous cards, serious cards, big imposing cards, or friendly little ones, and literally dozens of possibilities for each type give you the chance to select the one that fills your requirements.

The best Christmas cards are made from pictures taken especially for the purpose. This holds true whether you create your card "from the ground up"—picture, greeting, and all—or whether you use one of the various types of card mountings and folders that are on the market. The picture should be special—planned for this specific purpose—and it should have some reference to the season.

Some of the most clever and individual cards have the greeting right in the picture. For example, a "Merry Christmas" can be trampled up on a large clear bank of snow. You can letter a large placard, break a hole through the center and let the family's youngest member put his head through—with a big Christmas smile. If your youngster is at the age for alphabet blocks, you might set up the blocks to spell out the greeting—and have him sitting beside, with another block in his hand, as if he did it all by himself. Photograph the scene you choose, and there's your Christmas card picture, all ready for use.

Another method is to concentrate your energies on making a good picture, and leave the matter of adding the greeting to your photographer. Simple greeting kits are available if you do your own printing—or you can have the prints made for you.

Your picture should also include one or more members of your family, or your house, or something personal and individual that your friends will recognize. Even if the card includes just a group picture of the family—the most recent that you have made—it would still be a greeting far superior to any conventional card. And, of course, it is a lot more satisfying to send out a clever card that you have created yourself.

Christmas has a way of slipping up on us, so get into action early. Select your idea—a simple one is often the most attractive—and personalize your greeting this year with a photographic card.

THIS WEEK IN DEFENSE

Summarizing information on the important developments of the week made available by Official Sources.

President Roosevelt sent identical letters to UMW President Lewis and to the steel company representatives Benjamin Fairless, Eugene Grace and Frank Purnell stating that the captive mines must recommence. The issue in dispute does not justify a stoppage of work in a grave national crisis.

The President asked the four leaders to allow the matters of the closed shop in the captive mines to be settled by the War Relocation Authority for the period of the national emergency, or to accept final arbitration. He said any agreement reached would have no effect on the UMW's closed shop agreement already in effect with regular commercial mines.

In a message to the U.S. House of Representatives, the President said unless democratic freedoms are protected from the "world scourge" of Hitlerism "free trade unions and all other free institutions will vanish." To protect these freedoms, he wrote, we must produce guns, tanks, planes and ships without delay and without interruption and the American people and their Government are determined that we shall have them.

Agreement With Mexico
The State Department announced an agreement has been reached with Mexico providing 1 The setting of a final fair price for American petroleum properties taken over in 1933. Mexico to pay $9,000,000 once as a token payment. 2 Mexico to pay $40,000,000 in full settlement of general and agrarian claims at a rate of $2,500,000 annually. 3 A reciprocal trade treaty to be negotiated at once. 4 The United States to provide a $40,000,000 stabilization fund to maintain the peso at its present rate. 5 The U. S. to purchase up to 6,000,000 ounces of newly mined Mexican silver monthly. 6 The Export-Import Bank to establish credits up to $30,000,000 to be made available in installments of $10,000,000 a year to aid Mexico in developing its highways.

Lend-Lease Aid
The Department of Agriculture reported nearly 1,650,000,000 pounds of agricultural commodities costing almost $200,000,000 were delivered to representatives of the British Government for Lend-Lease shipment from the beginning of operations in April up to October 1. Animal protein products, including cheese, dried milk, evaporated milk, eggs, pork and lard, made up the most important groups of commodities.

State Secretary Hull announced a Lend-Lease agreement has been signed with Iceland.

Arming of Merchant Ships
President Roosevelt signed the legislation to repeal the three key sections of the Neutrality Act. The President also requested from Congress a new $380,050,000 appropriation for the Navy, including $120,000,000 for "defense installation" on merchant ships. Navy Secretary Knox said the first armed U. S. merchant vessels will be plying the seas within a week. He said ships plying both the Atlantic and Pacific will be armed. The arming of the ships will require three to four months to complete. The Navy will put gun crews of from 12 to 18 men on all ships as fast as they are armed.

The Maritime Commission reported the keels of 21 Liberty ships were laid during the month of October to bring the total to 76. Four of these cargo ships were launched in October, compared with three for September, and three more are scheduled to be launched this month. The Commission added four ships to its six-ship training fleet to help turn out 15,000 trained seamen for the deck, engine and steward's departments during 1942 and 1943.

Navy
The Navy announced capture by the U. S. cruiser OMAHA in Atlantic equatorial waters of the German ship ODEWALD which was sailing under U. S. colors. The disguised merchant ship was on its way from Yokohama to Bordeaux with a cargo of 3,000 tons of raw rubber and American-made automobile tires. Secretary Knox told his press conference the ODEWALD was one of a number of German ships which had been chartered to Japanese interests.

Three destroyers, a submarine and the battleship INDIANA were launched making a total of three battleships, 18 destroyers and 13 submarines launched so far this year. The three destroyers were five months ahead of schedule and the submarine three months.

Army Ordnance
President Roosevelt asked Congress for a supplemental appropriation of $6,687,000,000 for the War Department, including $3,720,000,000 for Ordnance and $779,000,000 for the Air Corps. Army Chief of Ordnance Wesson, speaking in Hartford, Conn., said U. S. light and medium tanks have greater fire power, maneuverability and speed than European models as well as "many times the powers of endurance." He said the Ordnance Department has also developed a light anti-tank artillery piece "capable of knocking out any known tank at very great ranges."

Maibes Next Christmas

by ANNE MARY LAWLER

Installment 1

"Now let me get this straight," Ma Shannon's voice was brisk and businesslike. "This is my last Christmas?"

Young Dr. Monroe reddened with embarrassment. "I'm not doing this at all well," he hesitated, "but—" "Save that bedside manner of yours for the younger women," Ma snapped. "I want the truth."

John Monroe tapped the shabby desk top with nervous fingers. "Well," he said, reluctantly, "you were a doctor's wife. You understand about these things."

"Yes or no?" Ma was relentless. "Yes." Relief and concern sat heavily on the doctor's face. "That heart of yours—you've known for years—even before the Big Doc died you knew that—"

"That it wouldn't last forever. I'm 65. Got to die some time. The question is—how long have I got?" "If you take care of yourself, six months at most."

"I see. And if I don't—sooner?" John Monroe nodded unhappily. "It—only somebody else could have told you, Ma. I—it's as if—"

"But this is definitely my last Christmas?"

"Yes, Ma."

She sighed heavily, rose to her feet. "I—thought as much. Thank you, Johnny."

"I'm having the children home for Christmas," Ma confided to Dan.

Army Health

The War Department announced the death rate in the Army from disease now is less than one-tenth what it was in 1917-18, and the venereal disease rate is less than half what it was at that time. Chief of Army Morale Osborne said most of the USO buildings will be in use by Christmas. The Army also announced field houses are being built in 37 camps to furnish additional recreational facilities during the winter months.

Civilian Supply

Director of Civilian Supply Henderson announced passenger car production during February, 1942 will be reduced by 56 percent as compared with production in February, 1941—from 396,000 cars to 174,000 cars. An OPM automotive committee recommended the effective date for the order banning bright work from automobiles be postponed from December 15 to December 31. The OPM made tentative allocations of 112 airplanes to U. S. commercial airlines during 1942.

Subcontracting

The Maritime Commission announced that because it started 14 months ago to "farm out" contracts to small manufacturers, it is now receiving machinery and equipment for the emergency ship construction program from 450 concerns in 32 States. The Treasury Department issued a booklet on procedures called "Doing Business with the Procurement Division." Copies are available without charge from the Treasury Procurement Division, Washington, D. C. The Contract Distribution Division opened nine more field offices to bring the total to 66.

Coke and Coal

Fuel Coordinator Ickes reported coke production during the first 10 months of this year was 16 percent greater than during the corresponding period last year. A record production of 65,000,000 tons is indicated for the complete year of 1941. Mr. Ickes also said production of Pennsylvania anthracite coal through October, 1941, was nine percent above the corresponding period of 1940. If the percentage is maintained, he said, total 1941 production will approximate 55,000,000 tons, the largest since 1934.

Newsboys To Sell Defense Stamps

The Treasury Department announced plans have been completed with newspaper circulation managers for 500,000 newspaper carrier-boys to sell Defense Savings Stamps direct to American homes.

The Department of Agriculture

The Department of Agriculture said additional improvement in the demand for farm products is indicated for the next few months as a result of increased consumer incomes and increased Government buying. Farm income from marketings increased 15 percent more than the normal seasonal gain during the period from June to September. The department also reported 10,420,000 persons employed in agriculture as of November 1, the lowest November level since 1925. Secretary Wickard announced establishment of a nation-wide organization of farmers and Department workers to make plans for an agriculture post-war program.

WEST GREENWOOD

Bobby and Teddy Rainey of Quincy, Mass., were in town a few days recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Alden Wilson are announcing the birth of a son, Sunday morning. He has been named Stanley Lee. Mrs. Grace Morrill is caring for Mrs. Wilson and baby.

Little Dennis and Gloria Wilson are staying with Mrs. Earl Cummings.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Cotton and granddaughters of Mechanic Falls were guests at T. R. Carter's, Sunday.

Albert Cotton of Mechanic Falls, Elfr Gibson and Bruce Bailey of South Portland were callers at T. R. Carter's Sunday.

That Nagging Backache

May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action

Modern life with its hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking—its risk of exposure and infection—throws heavy strain on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become over-taxed and fail to filter excess acid and other impurities from the life-giving blood.

You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, getting up at night, leg pains, swelling—feel constantly tired, nervous, all worn out. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

Try Doan's Pills. Doan's help the kidneys to pass off harmful excess body waste. They have had more than half a century of public approval. Are recommended by grateful users everywhere. Ask your neighbor!

Mountain Creek was meeting Christmas more than halfway. Narrow streets were heavily draped with loops of laurel.

Ma Shannon plodded through the crowds, a little dumpy figure in her ancient hat and unfashionable coat.

Two more weeks—so many things yet to be done, so little time left for the doing. Ma straightened her ridiculous hat with determined hands, smiled at the hurried young couple who had jostled her, and turned firmly into Davis' General Emporium and Postoffice.

Dan Davis was behind the counter. Ma was suddenly filled with a fierce delight.

His smile wrinkled a million large freckles. "Hello, young lady," he hailed. "Doing your Christmas shoplifting?"

"I've been walked on by every man, woman and child in Mountain Creek," Ma complained.

"Serves you right for not doing your shopping early."

"I'm a lazy old lady," she admitted shamelessly. She asked for some 3-cent stamps.

"Sounds—" the young voice faltered, "sounds as if you were going to write some letters. Give her my love."

"Sally?" For a sharp second the boy's heart stood naked in his eyes. "Who else but Sally?"

Ma leaned across the battered counter.

"I'm having the young ones home for Christmas," she confided. "Now maybe if you was to come sashay-in' up to the house, by accident—"

"It's a date," the boy grinned.

The letters to her children must be very carefully composed, Ma decided. Just the right amount of lightness—but not too light. They might suspect. Particularly Lydia, Lydia was sharp.

The letter to Lydia first, then. Ma gripped the pen in her work-battered fingers.

"Dear Lydia—" the pen spat. Lydia was in New York. She was 25, sleek, sophisticated, ambitious. She had studied nursing, grasped stenography and typing and learned to speak two languages in an appallingly short period of time. Now she was secretary-nurse-companion, at a fabulous salary, to a wealthy invalid.

Ma relentlessly drove her pen to lofty flights of rhetoric. "How have you been? It's been pretty warm here for December, but all the local weather prophets are promising a blizzard soon."

Ma frowned. The letter was getting nowhere, so she briskly attacked it from a new angle.

"I am inviting all the children home for Christmas. Christmases get rather precious at my age." No. Ma scratched out the last sentence. Lydia would fathom its wistful transparency.

"I know it's asking a good deal to expect you to come all the way from New York just for a few days, but"—Ma chewed the penholder viciously, "but—Christmas is for family get-togethers, and we've all been separated too long. Take care of yourself and let me know when to expect you. Love, Mother."

Ma reread the letter approvingly. "Brief and to the point," she nodded and essayed her second letter.

"Dear Dr. Shannon"—that should please Kenneth, she thought to herself, a trifle maliciously. Kenneth was something of a stuffed shirt about titles. Odd that she and gentle Christopher Shannon should have produced two such austere and correct children as Lydia and Kenneth.

"I think you've been working too hard. Your letters sound cross and grumpy. I prescribe a good, old-fashioned Christmas with all the trimmings. Mountain Creek still brags about you. Why not give us a treat? Besides, there'll be roast turkey with chestnut dressing."

"I am writing all the other children and it will be just like the old days again. Don't say you're too busy. Even doctors have to stop now and then. Love to Phyllis and kiss the baby for me. Mother."

Kenneth was the successful Shannon. He had inherited his father's deft fingers and observant eyes. It was as natural that he would turn to medicine as rivers turn toward the sea.

"I'm not throwing myself away on a dump like Mountain Creek the way Dad did," he had announced. "No horse and buggy for me. No, nor calls at midnight to deliver children to people who haven't paid for the last litter. If Dad had collected a quarter of his fees we could all retire and live on the income."

Kenneth had gone to Chicago. His assured manner and classic profile had neatly supplemented a natural talent for medicine. And his marriage to the socially prominent daughter of the head of Chicago's Central Clinic had not hampered his progress.

Kenneth at 39 was wealthy, successful, assured. "Ma was a trifle in awe of her firstborn. She turned hastily to her third letter.

"Dear Robert: I am expecting you home for Christmas." No delicate prelude to her younger son's letter. Robert was a writer, the least aggressive of the Shannons. Ma suspected there were many days when Robert's meals were something short of lavish, when his socks were undarned and his suits unpressed. Robert had migrated to Baltimore and entombed himself in a boarding house to write the great American novel.

"I am sending you a little money. I know I have no right to ask you to make the trip at your own expense. Baltimore to Mountain Creek is a long way. I have written all the children to come home. It will be like old times."

Ma clutched the pen with unsteady fingers. Ah, the sharp stabbing pain in her breast! It beat a steady rhythm in her blood: "Last Christmas—last Christmas—last Christmas—"

"Bring your novel home with you. I want you to read it to me. I am so proud of you and know it will be a great success." Flattery, gross and heavy, but the weak must be flattered and petted and coaxed. "I read the poem in the little magazine you sent me. It was lovely. If only your father were alive to see it. Most of Mountain Creek asks for you. Nothing much new. I am knitting you a nice warm sweater—blue—you always liked blue. Love, Mother."

Ma's breath labored in short panting gasps. She was tired. The nagging pain gave her no rest. But there was still one more letter to be written. She dipped the pen into the chipped inkwell and carefully traced:

"Dear Sally: Sally's letter must be gay and frivolous and inconsequential. Ma felt anything but gay and frivolous. "Come home. All is forgiven. What has Hollywood to offer that Mountain Creek can't beat? Besides, we're having a Christmas turkey with chestnut stuffing. And glibet gravy. And hot mince pie with hard sauce. From what I read in the magazines nobody in Hollywood eats anything but sawdust and skim milk. But I still make Christmas cookies the way I used to and the mail where you always hung your stocking is still over the fireplace. I've written Lydia and Robert and Kenneth and it seems to be a regular family reunion. I saw the picture with you in."

Davis took me. We had to go through it twice because we missed you the first time. It was sort of hard picking you out in that mob scene, but you looked beautiful. I will be looking forward to an old-fashioned family Christmas. Your father always said—"that Christmas was invented so people who loved each other could be together. Dan sends his love. So do I. Mummy."

Pretty, petted, spoiled Sally, with her candid blue eyes and her riotous blonde curls and her overweening ambition to be an actress.

"She can't act worth a penny," was Ma's inward comment, recalling a succession of high school plays. "But she's so easy to look at. Maybe that's all Hollywood needs."

She stamped her letters thoughtfully. For a short while the irritating pain ceased. Ma chuckled. "Doctors are sometimes wrong," she consoled herself. "Maybe I'll feel Johnny Sawbones yet. Maybe next Christmas—" but she knew it was only bravado. "Maybe next Christmas—"

Lydia Shannon carefully arranged the morning mail.

A few personal letters for "Eve Wainwright. Lydia would open them later, read them to the invalid in her quiet, sympathetic voice.

Carter Wainwright's mail she laid carefully next to his plate. The one on top—the heavy flecked polo cloth—scrawled in large and arrogant script, that would be from Margot Haines. Lydia's fine mouth thinned sharply. If Margot Haines cherished the delusion that Carter Wainwright might make an acceptable husband, she was mistaken. Margot's matrimonial ventures were numerous and publicized, and Margot was beautiful and fascinating—but—there was Lydia. And Lydia had long ago decided elderly and wealthy Carter Wainwright was her own private property.

The invalid upstairs had a limited lease on living, and Lydia was both patient and clever.

She rang for the quiet Jap, gave him orders in her low, businesslike voice.

Kato's eyes were beadily emotionless. He padded from the room without a sound, and Lydia at last turned to her own mail, three letters impatiently craving her attention. She fingered them lightly. A heavy crested envelope postmarked "Monte Carlo." That would be the charming and impecunious young Duke she had met last September.

The second letter wore a chilling lack of personality. It was postmarked "Baltimore." Lydia frowned, Robert again, and very likely begging for more money.

The third letter was shabby, untidy and unassuming. It bore the legend, "Mountain Creek."

Lydia carefully slit the communication from Monte Carlo, read it through with amusement. Nikki was a dear.

The second letter was short and blunt. Yes, Robert wanted money. With characteristic lack of finesse he stated his problem starkly in the first crowded paragraph. "I'm invited to the Christmas banquet of the Writers Club. I can't afford not to go. Perry Boyle will be there. He's the publisher, you know. It's formal and I've got to get a dinner jacket. If Boyle notices me my novel has a chance."

Lydia tossed the letter aside. Robert's petulant problems always upset her.

HOLT-TRUE

The First Parish Church of Concord, Mass., was the scene on Sunday afternoon, Oct. 26, of the marriage of Miss Anna Milnes True, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Payson True, to John Edward Holt, son of Mr. and Mrs. William G. Holt of Bethel, Me. The ceremony was at four o'clock with the Rev. Edward Perry Daniels officiating. White chrysanthemums, white pom-poms and autumn leaves decorated the church while white pom-poms, hattersweet huckleberry and other autumn leaves were used in the church parlors for the reception.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white satin with lace inserts, fastened with long sleeves and train.

Her finger-tip veil of silk tulle edged with lace was held in place by orange blossoms and she carried a shower bouquet of white carnations and button chrysanthemums. She was attended by Mrs. Hermon G. Wilson of Troy, N. Y., roommate at Green Mountain Junior College, a sister of honor; Miss Thelma True a sister; Miss Helen L. Vanderhoof, Miss Barbara B. Loughlin and Miss Barbara J. Christenson as bridesmaids.

The matron of honor was gowned in pink brocaded satin trimmed with blue velvet ribbon. The bridesmaid wore the same model with colors reversed and all wore pearl tresses and carried bouquets of pink roses.

Mrs. True wore a gown of blue velvet with hat of wine color and a corsage of gardenias.

Raymond W. Holt of Bethel, was best man for his brother. Another brother, Francis G. Holt of Bethel, Rudolph S. Dietrich and Malcolm J. Ruhl, both of Andover Mass. and Herman G. Wilson of Troy, N. Y., served as ushers.

SMALL—KEDDY

(Portland Evening Express)

Miss Dorothy Mary Keddy wore a gown of ivory slipper satin, made princess style and pearl trimmed, with finger tip veil arranged halo fashion, when she became the bride of Lincoln Thurston Small, Sunday afternoon in Trinity Episcopal Church. She carried a bouquet of white pompons tied with blue ribbons. Miss Alice E. Mottram, maid of honor, wore a gown of blue taffeta, with matching hat and accessories. She carried bronze pompons. Janet Dennison of Melrose, Mass., niece of the bridegroom, wore a floor length frock of dusty rose taffeta and carried a basket of vari-colored flowers. Clayton B. Clark attended Mr. Small at best man. The ushers were

James B. Dennison of Melrose, Mass., and Royden Keddy of Somerville, Mass.

The Rev. Victor M. Regan officiated. The wedding music was played by Kenneth Estes and Ronald H. Keddy of Somerville, Mass., gave his sister in marriage.

Following a short motor trip Mr. and Mrs. Small will reside at 51 Park Street. For traveling Mrs. Small wore an ensemble of grey and black.

Mr. Small, son of Mrs. Ernest L. Small of Pleasant Avenue, is engaged in the contracting business here. Mrs. Small is the daughter of Mrs. Margaret M. Keddy of Emery Street (formerly of Bethel).
